med.talks

Conferences & Presentations

During the job fairs, Careers in White is organising MedTalks - dedicated medical conferences where candidates receive information regarding future trends in healthcare, current available therapeutic approaches and many more.

We give participating companies the opportunity to sponsor these events and present themselves to the target audience in various forms: short 15 minutes presentation before the conference, banner placement, distribution of flyers, online advertisement.

Prices start from 300 EUR per conference.

Upon request, Careers in White Team will organize and promote a separate conference or presentation that your company wishes to have, bringing your target audience directly in front of you. Individualised offer is to be made based on your target group and desired format of the presentation.

marketing .strategy

Working in a very specific niche (healthcare recruitment), mass promotion methods are not very effective.

We use targeted promotion campaigns such as:

- > online advertisement: social media, search engines
- > Email and SMS advertisement: 70.000 healthcare personnel have trusted their profesional data with us and agreed on receiving emails and text messages from us
- > paid and online barter promotion: dedicated articles on our media partners' websites
- > offline promotion: outdoor banners, flyers, posters, stickers.

> TV and Radio coverage: we attend TV shows , we offer interviews with regards to the events and the recruitment trends > trade events and medical conferences exposure: we advertise our events by attending, sponsoring or spreading materials in medical related conferences and events.

We also rely a lot on our local promoters in each city, their network and the word of mouth, is a very efficient method of promotion for us.
